Dear Kadek Adi Wibawa

Greetings from QITEP and thankyou for agreeing to allow me to edit your paper for publication.

First, as I have edited your paper and I need you to reply to this email saying that you agree with the changes.

Second, as the deadline for sending to the printers is the 22nd of November so could you please answer my questions below and send to me by Thursday 21st November or sooner. If you wish to discuss anything then please email me and I will quickly respond.

The easiest way is to reply to this email and add your material to each of my questions.

Regards

Allan

1. It is not our policy to include supervisory teams as authors. It is enough that they are acknowledged at the end of the paper. I am sure that they have guided your research and assisted your writing but that is part of the expectations of their work. If everyone who helped you put their name down as an author then my name should appear for making corrections, which is just not ethical. If you have difficulties with any of your supervisors then show them this statement and tell them that I am more than happy to discuss this matter further if they would like to contact me.
2. The methodology is very basic. Can you send me a few sentences of how you conducted the interviews and the thinking aloud. For example you interviewed the 8 (???) students one by one as they worked through a problem etc etc. Just describe in more detail how it happened. In the process when does 'the translation scheme adjustment defragmentation' occur?
3. An example of one problem would be helpful to the reader.
4. A reference needing more info
